

SOME WAY OUT OF HERE: Disarming Nuclear Powers & Preventing Proliferation

NUCLEAR NONPROLIFERATION TREATY PREPCOM SIDE EVENT

April 29, 2025, 3-6 p.m. United Nations New York, Meeting Room A

Contrary to their Article VI obligations and previous NPT Review Conference commitments, we face an increasingly dangerous period. All of the nuclear weapons states are “modernizing” their omniscidal nuclear arsenals. The Kremlin’s nuclear threats in the Ukraine War, emulating those of the U.S. in the past, have fueled political pressures in too many nations that nuclear deterrence is a necessity rather than a danger. China is significantly increasing its nuclear arsenal creating a situation in which the world is held hostage to three nuclear scorpions in a bottle. Uncertainties over Trump administration commitments are increasing proliferation pressures in Europe, the Middle East, and across Northeast Asia.

In these circumstances, nuclear abolitionist social movements in Britain and Japan, and grassroots movements in many countries continue to build political pressure and provide models to prevent nuclear war and win a nuclear-free future.

Speakers include:

John Burroughs, Senior Analyst, Lawyers Committee on Nuclear Policy (USA)

Marco Marzo, Secretary-General of ABACC, The Brazilian-Argentine Agency for Accounting and Control of Nuclear Materials (Brazil)

Tsuchida Yayoi, Assistant Secretary, General Gensuikyo Japan Council against A & H- Bombs (Japan)

Sharon Dolev, Executive Director, Middle East Treaty Organization (Israel) - Invited